Signs: Portable and Temporary

Type of Sign	Definition
Portable	Movable sign that is not attached to a structure or the ground, includes: A-boards, portable reader-boards and similar signs.
Temporary portable	Movable sign with specific limited display times, typically used for real estate open houses, garage sales and other temporary events, but may not be used regularly in same location.
Banner	A sign made of fabric or other similar non-rigid material supported or anchored at four corners or along top with weighted bottom. A larger banner will require additional support and anchor points.
Balloon	Examples include giant inflatable balloons, hot air or flying ballons, fly guys/air dancers and balloon sculpture/arches.
Flag	A sign made of fabric or other similar non-rigid material supported or anchored along one edge or two corners. If any side is more than three times as long as any other side the flag becomes a banner.
Temporary fascia/ freestanding	Registration through BDS when displayed for more than one year

Portable signs can only be placed on the right-of-way adjacent to the property where the sign is registered or on the private property where the sign is registered. They cannot be placed across the street or a neighboring property.

For information about permanent signs (other than portable permanent signs) and awnings, please visit the BDS Web site at www.portlandoregon.gov/bds, select the Pemits tab then Signs and Other Permits.
