The City Planner II – Environmental at the Bureau of Development Services implements the Portland Zoning Code and provides information to the public about zoning and issues related to the use of land. They review development proposals to ensure compliance with the City's Title 33 zoning regulations and applicable environmental codes, approval criteria, requirements and regulations; and produce public notifications and reports documenting how criteria are met. Typical assigned reviews include Environmental and Greenway reviews to evaluate whether the development proposal has the least detrimental impact to inventoried resources and functional values, and that unavoidable impacts are mitigated. Planners work with developers, lawyers, neighborhoods, and the City's infrastructure bureaus to mediate conflicts, problem-solve, and coordinate infrastructure improvements.
