

A FRAMEWORK FOR EQUITY

MAKING EQUITY REAL

Advancing equity in Portland means improving the way the city works — starting with how the city government and its partners make decisions, invest, and engage with Portlanders and each other to measure success.

This chapter of the Portland Plan explains the framework for advancing equity (longer-term policies and short-term actions). It includes information on what to do — close disparity gaps and focus on equitable outcomes; how to do it — improve participation, build partnerships and initiate targeted social justice initiatives; and how to be accountable. It sets forth a new way of working that puts achieving equity front and center and identifies some of the specific actions needed to ensure that the Portland Plan’s equity framework is strong and supportive.

The Framework for Equity includes “We will” statements that set the ground rules for how the city and its partners conduct ourselves, and it outlines the ends we would like to achieve and the means used to get there. It includes specific actions that the city and its partners will need to take in the next five years to move intentionally toward being a more equitable and just city.

The City and Portland Plan partners will use the framework as a guide when they implement actions in other sections of this plan and develop their work plans to make the goals of the Portland Plan reality. All Portland Plan actions should be implemented with this framework in mind.

The portraits featured in A Framework for Equity were provided by My Story students. My Story offers photography workshops that inspire young people to explore their lives through the lens of a camera. My Story collaborates with families, schools and community organizations in developing projects that engage the imagination and creativity of young people, building confidence in their abilities, and providing opportunities for them to share their stories with the world.

EQUITY DEFINED

Equity is when everyone has access to the opportunities necessary to satisfy their essential needs, advance their well-being and achieve their full potential. We have a shared fate as individuals within a community and communities within society. All communities need the ability to shape their own present and future. Equity is both the means to healthy communities and an end that benefits us all.

MAKING EQUITY REAL

We make the promise of opportunity real when:

- All Portlanders have access to a high-quality education, living wage jobs, safe neighborhoods, basic services, a healthy natural environment, efficient public transit, parks and greenspaces, decent housing and healthy food.
- The benefits of growth and change are equitably shared across our communities. No one community is overly burdened by the region's growth.
- All Portlanders and communities fully participate in and influence public decision-making.
- Portland is a place where your future is not limited by your race, gender, sexual orientation, disability, age, income, where you were born or where you live.
- Underrepresented communities are engaged partners in policy decisions.

IN 2011, THE PORTLAND CITY COUNCIL VOTED TO CREATE THE OFFICE OF EQUITY AND HUMAN RIGHTS (OEHR). THE OFFICE OF EQUITY AND HUMAN RIGHTS WILL BE A CRITICAL IMPLEMENTER OF THE PORTLAND PLAN AND WILL WORK CLOSELY WITH THE PORTLAND COMMISSION ON DISABILITY AND THE PORTLAND HUMAN RIGHTS COMMISSION THROUGHOUT THE IMPLEMENTATION OF THE PORTLAND PLAN.

WHY EQUITY MATTERS

Prosperity

Portland wins when everyone achieves their full potential — when businesses thrive in our community, when children graduate from school college- and career-ready and when we all have access to healthy food. Portland's shared prosperity depends on everyone's participation.

Resilience

Without healthy, thriving, prepared people we cannot achieve our highest goals, implement our best plans for dealing with climate change or secure Portland's position in the global economy. Without a city that is physically designed to last, future generations will not benefit. We want a city where we are better on a good day so we can bounce back from a bad day. It requires that everyone thrive and everyone participate.

Prevention

Meaningfully connecting everyone to community institutions, programs and services prevents problems from occurring in the first place. The cost of doing nothing is profound, both socially and fiscally.

Leadership

Just as Portland has led innovation in environmental sustainability and green technology, Portland must be a leader in social sustainability. By focusing on ways to build equity and accountability, Portland will lead the development of 21st century business practices and tools, and that has value in a knowledge-based economy.

WORKING TOWARD EQUITY REQUIRES AN UNDERSTANDING OF HISTORICAL CONTEXTS AND ONGOING INVESTMENTS IN SOCIAL STRUCTURES OVER TIME TO ENSURE THAT ALL COMMUNITIES CAN REALIZE THEIR VISION FOR SUCCESS.

PORTLAND IS A PLACE FOR ALL GENERATIONS

Portland must become a city that is a great place to live for people of all ages and abilities. The Thriving Educated Youth strategy focuses on the need to provide support and opportunities for youth to thrive; this will ultimately benefit all Portlanders and is key to reducing disparities among our communities.

Although Portland has been named one of the best places to retire in the U.S. on national lists, over the next 25 years Portland must become a more age-friendly city. The aging of the Baby Boom and Gen X generations and their increasing longevity will present challenges and opportunities that will be a key part of how we plan for the future of our city. The Portland Plan moves forward on making Portland a more age-friendly city in several ways:

- Framework for Equity. The Framework for Equity recognizes that Portland must become a city where access to opportunity, safe neighborhoods, safe and sound housing, healthy food, efficient public transit and parks and greenspaces are available to people of all ages and abilities, and calls for meeting and exceeding the Americans with Disabilities Act.
- Age-friendly city action plan. Portland is one of only two U.S. cities accepted as pioneer members of the World Health Organization's (WHO) Global Network of Age-Friendly Cities. According to the WHO, an age-friendly city is one that, "adapts its structures and services to be accessible to, and inclusive of, older people with varying needs and capacities ... it emphasizes enablement rather than disablement, and is friendly for all ages." The City of Portland and its community partners will undertake an Action Plan on Aging to assess how Portland can become a more age-friendly city and will identify implementation strategies.
- Accessible housing. Finding accessible, barrier-free housing can be difficult for older adults and others with mobility needs, especially given that the majority of Portland's housing is over 50 years old and typically has stairs and other features that limit accessibility. The Portland Plan places a new priority on expanding the availability of housing that incorporates accessible design to meet the needs of people of all ages and abilities.
- Accessible community hubs. People of all ages need safe, welcoming places that encourage physical activity and social inclusion and interaction. Recognizing that many older adults and people with disabilities cannot walk or roll very far, the Portland Plan prioritizes locating more housing for older adults and mobility-limited residents in places, such as neighborhood centers, where proximity to services and transit and accessible sidewalks makes it easier to live independently. The plan also encourages schools, colleges and universities to flexibly accommodate multiple functions, serving community members of all ages.
- Safety and accessibility on civic corridors. While all TriMet buses are fully accessible, getting to some bus stops can be challenging. Safety and accessibility of some of Portland's major transit streets can be enhanced by sidewalks and marked crosswalks. The Healthy Connected City strategy's civic corridors approach will prioritize improvements to prominent transit streets to make them truly transit- and pedestrian-oriented places, with improved sidewalks, pedestrian crossings and transit facilities. They will include features that support community livability and environmental sustainability.
- Medical institutions. Portland's aging population will increase the demand for medical services. The Portland Plan responds to this growing need by calling for new approaches to accommodate the growth of institutional facilities and neighborhood centers that may support health facilities, and for increasing workforce training in health care and senior services.
- Inter-generational mentoring. The accumulated knowledge and wisdom of Portland's older population is an invaluable asset to the community. The Thriving Education Youth strategy recognizes this and encourages more inter-generational mentoring.
