

Heritage Trees of Portland

MADRONE (Arbutus menziesii) ERICACEAE

- Native to the west coast from B.C. to southern California.
- In wild can reach over 100' but usually less in the city.
- Tree is a broadleaf evergreen, shedding its old leaves bit by bit. Leaf is shiny and has a red petiole.
- Flowers are white clusters in early spring. Fruit is half-inch red ball in late summer.
- Bark is red-brown and exfoliates in patches to display smooth green-yellow beneath.
- Uncommon in Portland. Prefers dry hillsides. Over 50 year ago, large stands were on east bank of Willamette River.

43 Madrone (Arbutus menziesii)

2435 N. Wygant

H 60, S 60, C 10.33

LEGEND
* X cr. nr.	privately owned across from corner near	H	height
		S	canopy spread
		C	circumference of trunk
(all measurements in feet)			