| Ashley Lancaster | Portland Police Bureau | AL is a true leader within the Portland Police Bureau. As the Bureau's Policy Director, AL continuously strives to ensure that Bureau policies and procedures comport with the highest standards in modern policing. Going further, Ashley's work ensuring the enactment of new policies on Pregnancy, Wellness, and LGBTQIA2S+/Queer Community position PPB as a leading agency in policing. Ashley approaches all of her work with an equity and inclusion lens, and connects meaningfully with folks ranging from SERT team members to PCCEP to the City Attorney's Office, to name a few. | Laurel Green-Mitchell | Portland Police Bureau |
| Dorothy Bourdon | Portland Police Bureau | Dorothy has been the go to person in our office for the creation of and building databases in Access and Excel. Thanks to Dorothy we now have a very reliable system for our Bureau Awards. Having everything from nominations to keeping an inventory of our medals in one place makes us more efficient. Dorothy takes the time to educate herself on building databases and Smart Sheets and then educates the rest of us. Often, she will see a better way of doing things by creating or enhancing existing procedures. And being a team player, she will share and help implement her ideas. Dorothy is a Wonder Woman! | Diane Haman | Portland Police Bureau |
| Emily Rochon | Portland Police Bureau | Emily Rochon serves as the Coordinator for the Service Coordination Team and is assigned to the Portland Police Bureau's Behavioral Health Unit. Emily has been a member of PPB since June 2015 and prior to her current position served as the HRR Supervisor for Central City Concern providing addiction treatment and housing to SCT participants. Emily's dedication to her work is unparalleled. Her impact on the ongoing success of the Service Coordination Team, and the BHU, is enormous. She is committed to serving community members who largely fall through the cracks of the system; allowing them a chance to regain their foothold and get back to a place where they can thrive. The breadth of her experience has made her a subject matter expert in regard to the systems and policies designed to help those facing significant obstacles. Emily is not only responsible for the contract management of the SCT program, but also she represents the Police Bureau on multiple community committees, facilitates trainings for community partners and at national level conferences, and still remains active in daily outreach to clients living outside in the throes of addiction. She is known for her ability to relate to hard to reach clients with a masterful balance of compassion and accountability. Coworkers, community partners, community members and those she has served recognize Emily's daily devotion to provide opportunities for rehabilitation of those experiencing addiction. There is no doubt that Emily Rochon is a Fabulous Wonder Woman. | Christopher Burley | Portland Police Bureau |
| Jami Resch | Portland Police Bureau | Assistant Chief Resch is a Wonder Woman. Assistant Chief is hard-working and always up for the difficult tasks that come at the Chiefs office. Chief Resch does it all, from Speaking to City Council on Current events to assisting Patrol in Chasing down a suspect. The Chief just does the Right thing and is deserving of the WONDER WOMAN award. | Anonymous | |

| Jena Lemke | Portland Police Bureau | Ofc. Lemke has served as a consistently high performing, hard-working officer for 10 years and on North Night shift for the past 6 years. Her strong work ethic, care for others, and determination to do her job well is highly respectable. Ofc. Lemke leads by setting an example of the highest degree of respect and service to the community she serves. She is regarded by her peers as a valuable resource, compassionate officer, and dedicated public servant. Ofc. Lemke embodies the true spirit of community policing in fostering relationships and working with the citizens and businesses in her district to solve problems and to prevent crime. Few people have the work ethic that Ofc. Lemke brings each day to her shift. She goes out of her way to ensure the community gets the service they expect by routinely skipping wellness times, staying late, and in providing exceptional follow-up service that is not required. Ofc. Lemke is a great example to all in the level of service, and level of care she brings to her work. Ofc. Lemke serves as an ECIT officer who responds to intense, sensitive, and at times, highly stressful situations involving persons in mental health crisis. Ofc. Lemke takes this role seriously and has developed a very good ability to speak with persons in mental health crisis, empathize with them, and follow up with medical providers to ensure that they fully understand the situation so the individual gets the best care possible. While our agency has experienced a high level of stress, frustration, and turnover, Ofc. Lemke has maintained positive outlook at work which carries over to her colleagues. Ofc. Lemke serves as an EAP Peer Support member and her positive outlook and healthy attitude towards recent hardships aid her in lending assistance to others when needed. Ofc. Lemke works selflessly and upholds the values of the bureau throughout her daily work and should be recognized for this continued pattern of excellence. | Anonymous | |
| Jennie Alexander | Portland Police Bureau | Jennie works in a different bureau than me and doesn't really know me from a hole in the wall, but when I called her up, desperate for someone to guide me as a new OBPA, she quickly made time to spend hours with me training me on the many nuances of Organizational Management. She always has the most cheerful attitude and is extremely competent and patient with me and my myriad questions. If it weren't for her, learning my new job would have been much, much more difficult. | Anna DiBenedetto | Portland Fire & Rescue |
| Kathryn Linzey | Portland Police Bureau | As an Analyst I, Kathryn raises the bar. She is one of those people who can both do it all and make it look easy. She is an amazing coworker and works hard every day. Her capability to connect with people is something that cannot be taught. In addition to keeping up with an impossible workload, Kathryn is always willing to stop what she is doing to help out her coworkers. She has a great attitude and is a person who wants to see her coworkers succeed. I am honored to work with her but most of all, to call her my friend and my partner in crime. Thank you, Kathryn, for all your hard work and continuous out-of-the box thinking! | Tori Rohrbach | Portland Police Bureau |
| Kathryn Linzey | Portland Police Bureau | Linzey (what everyone calls her) is a stellar individual in every way, making all Portland City employees better just by interacting with her. Linzey builds productive, deep, dynamic and lasting work relationships at every turn. She makes us all feel important and is there to help in any way, no matter our position or gender or skin color. There is no virtue signaling about it, either. She is the real deal and makes the rest of feel the same. More than any woman we City employees know, she deserves recognition for all she does for this city. Linzey is Portland's Wonder Woman, and ultimately, the world's. | Anonymous | |

| Kim Hubbard | Portland Police Bureau | Kim is a hard-working supervisor in the Enhanced Community Engagement Team. She is very well respected by her peers and the people who she supervises. She is always up for a challenge at work and still maintains a happy home life. Kim is well deserving for a Wonder Woman award. | Anonymous | |
| Lauren Rosenstein | Portland Police Bureau | As PPB's Equity Training Specialist, Lauren prioritizes approaching her work with humility, empathy, and understanding. She has played a major role in developing training content that acknowledges the history of policing and its local impacts, and challenges PPB to improve its practices in a meaningful and community-informed way. She emphasizes the importance of elevating the voices of the members of the communities PPB serves, and ensures that those voices are central in the work that she does and training content she develops. Her work has been integral both to building trust with the community, but also creating space internally to have honest conversations about race and equity. | Anonymous | |
| Lauren Rosenstein | Portland Police Bureau | In her time as Equity Training Specialist Lauren has exhibited vision, tenacity, and passion for equity and genuine transformation within the Police Bureau. She has led many new initiatives and built relationships in the challenging atmosphere of few resources and little time. Her work is an inspiration to the office and an incredible accomplishment for anyone inhabiting a new role. | Marlon Marion, Brody Sargent | Portland Police Bureau |
| Lauren Rosenstein | Portland Police Bureau | Lauren has been and is a Wonder Woman in and out of PPB. Working in an environment that is not always the most welcoming to her work and working in a community that is not always keen on her Bureau, Lauren somehow finds the courage and energy to show up and bring her passion, charisma, knowledge, and humility. | Anonymous | |
| Lauren Rosenstein | Portland Police Bureau | Lauren is an insightful, capable, and kind colleague. I'll never forget how good she made me feel when she included me in a project. We were about to go into breakout groups, and for the third time in a row, I was without a partner to learn from and collaborate with in a breakout group. It was just me left and the meeting host, and I felt like the unwanted person in dodgeball. Lauren noticed me and confidently and swiftly invited me to collaborate with her team. Not only was it gracious to include me, but the meeting also resulted in major collaboration among us for citywide equity work. Lauren is a compassionate, collaborative team player and an asset to the City. | Ashley Tjaden | Bureau of Emergency Communications |
| Meghan Burkeen | Portland Police Bureau | Detective Burkeen is an exceptional Detective in the Enhanced Community Safety Team. She is hard-working and believes in the work she is doing is making a difference for the City. On her off time, she is a coach for her daughter's basketball team. She is highly respected by her peers. Megan needs to be recognized for her Wonder Woman powers as a hard-working mother and for the exhausting hours she gives to the City. | Anonymous | |
| Slavica Jovanovic | Portland Police Bureau | Slavica is the most compassionate, loving, and supportive person I have known. She responds to sexual assault survivors no matter what time of day or night it is. She works tirelessly to help community members find justice when crimes are committed against their bodies. She is truly an amazing human being, and the City of Portland is lucky to have her on this workforce! | Irene Konev | City Auditor |

| Tammi Weiss | Portland Police Bureau | I have known Tammi for nearly 15 years. She is hard-working, knowledgeable, and an inclusive, emotionally intelligent leader. She authentically cares about the records department and the team she leads. Tammi also has a sense of humor, which makes her approachable and a pleasure to work with. She truly deserves recognition over how she stepped up through the pandemic for a plan to operate records. Tammi was also the only supervisor to check on staff when they had to move through the protests. Tammi has also stepped up to manage the entire records department when our manager and one supervisor were put on leave. As a 24/7 operational department, Tammi is always available to the records department staff. It is my pleasure to nominate her for this award. | Angela McCall | Portland Police Bureau |
| Tammi Weiss | Portland Police Bureau | She has an incredible work ethic and is passionate about making sure her teams are happy and thriving. Tammi is an inclusive leader that has time for her team and strives to make the workplace healthy, equitable and transparent. She embodies the core values of the City and is a pleasure to work for. Her knowledge and ability to keep the department going through such difficult times is outstanding. Tammi truly cares about the work we do as public servants and those she leads. | Anonymous | |
| Torrey Streed | Portland Police Bureau | Her outstanding dedication to helping the community through her work as well as an incredible support and resource through the EAP. She is not only always willing to do the work, but she does it with no questions asked and a smile on her face knowing it's helping others. Her selflessness and dedication are unmatched & admirable. | Rebecca Walding | Portland Police Bureau |
| Vanessa Mathis | Portland Police Bureau | She has been training two people outside her division, in two separate jobs, while also learning a new key position. She is always available and positive and knowledgeable. | Sean Gentry | Portland Police Bureau |
