SAP Segregation of Duties Exception Process and Form

Section I: Description of Segregation of Duties Exception Process

The following form is to be used by a bureau or division requesting that a position be granted an exception to the segregation of duties requirements in SAP and to comply with Accounting Administrative Rule: FIN 6.15 – Internal Controls and Management’s Responsibility.

Definition/Examples: Incompatible duties or responsibilities occur when a single person has been given or allowed access that could potentially be used to carry out and conceal errors and/or irregularities in the course of performing their day-to-day activities. Some examples of incompatible duties are:

- Authorizing a financial transaction, then receiving and maintaining custody of the asset that resulted from the transaction.
- Receiving checks (payment on accounts receivable) and approving write-offs.
- Depositing cash and reconciling bank statements.
- Approving time cards and having custody of paychecks.
- Having unlimited access to alter or adjust assets and accounting records, and computer terminals and programs.

A list of conflicting roles can be found on the EBS website:

Exceptions: Segregation of duties policy exceptions are sometimes necessary to accommodate situations—for example, unforeseen absences in the workplace—that require a user to perform conflicting tasks outside of their usual responsibilities. It is understood that granting this exception gives a specified user access to resources that are not compatible under the segregation of duties policy.

Internal Controls: It is also understood that mitigating controls must be in place in the area as described below and that confirmation of those controls will be required on an on-going basis. Failure to comply with defined control requirements will result in immediate termination of this exception.

Process/Approval: An exception must be submitted to the City Controller and approved before the roles can be assigned in SAP. This exception includes the following sign off and approval, preferably using digital signatures:

- Employee who is the current position holder
- Employee’s supervisor who acknowledges the mitigating controls to be used
- Senior Financial Officer in bureau
- City Controller
