

New Gardens Breaking Ground!

This year we're building more Community Gardens than ever before. As part of our Community Gardens Initiative we've joined partners across the city to reach our 1,000 Gardens goal -- together, we hope to open 1,000 new garden plots by the end of 2012.

If you have a new garden proposal or would like to get involved in a project in your community, contact the Community Gardens Program Coordinator, Laura Niemi: laura.niemi@portlandoregon.gov

To follow the progress of this initiative, you can also go to Commissioner Nick Fish's 1,000 Gardens Blog.

Claredon School Community Garden

Location: N. Fessenden & VanHouten

Description: Depaved pavement on Portland Public Schools property – Claredon School is not currently in active use

Partners: Portland Public Schools, Portsmouth Neighborhood Association, Portland Development Commission

Construction timeline: Depaving is complete,

Scheduled to open: Fall 2011

Sumner Street Community Garden

Location: NE 46th & Sumner

Description: Portland Parks Property

Partners: Cully Neighborhood Association, Friends of Portland Community Gardens, East Multnomah Soil and Water Conservation District

Construction timeline: Summer 2011

Scheduled to open: Fall 2011

Frazer Park Community Garden

Location: NE 52nd Ave & Hassalo St

Description: Located in Frazer Park, Depaving pavement near the Headstart school

Partners: Depave, RoseCity Park Neighborhood Association, Friends of Portland Community Gardens, East Multnomah Soil & Water Conservation District

Construction timeline: Depaving in late August, Construction in early Fall

Scheduled to open: Fall 2011

Ed Benedict Community Garden

Location: SE 104th Ave & Powell Blvd

Description: Next to the Portland Memory Garden

Partners: Friends of Portland Memory Garden, Portland Development Commission,

Scheduled to open: Early 2012

Kenton Community Garden

Location: N. Houghton and Borage

Description: Located on property owned by the Bureau of Environmental Services

Partners: Kenton Neighborhood Association, Portland Development Commission,
Bureau of Environmental Services

Scheduled to open: Early 2012

Errol Heights Community Garden

Location: SE 48th and Tenino Drive

Description: Located on Portland Parks Property

Estimated Number of plots:

Partners: Brentwood Darlington Neighborhood Association, Friends of Portland Community Gardens

Construction timeline: Fall 2011 and Winter 2012

Scheduled to open: Spring 2012

Dig In: Work parties TBA - Check program website

Plot Registration Opens:

Mt. Tabor Community Garden

Location: Lincoln and 64th

Description: Located in the "Long Block" at Parks Bureau's Mt. Tabor Nursery

Estimated Number of plots:

Partners: Friends of Portland Community Gardens

Construction timeline: Fall 2011 and Winter 2012

Scheduled to open: Spring 2012

Dig In: Steering Committee is being formed, contact program if interested

Plot Registration Opens: