East Portland in Motion

OPEN HOUSE: Thursday, April 5, 2012, 5:30-8 PM

Please come see the final implementation strategy & sidewalk project kick-off

East Portland in Motion is a 5-year implementation strategy for active transportation projects east of 82nd Avenue. It is focused on how to improve conditions for walking, biking, and taking transit. The Portland Bureau of Transportation has gathered information from the East Portland community and analyzed project data to recommend which projects to build first. The strategy will be presented at City Council on April 18, at 9:30 AM.

Sidewalk projects to move forward

An important piece of the implementation strategy is to build sidewalks on major streets.

Portland Mayor Sam Adams is working with the Portland Bureau of Transportation to bring much-needed sidewalk projects to East Portland. Through the East Portland in Motion effort, Bureau staff identified priority projects that build sidewalks where the community wanted them and provide the most benefit to people walking and taking transit.

The projects to be built are listed in the side table. Together, they will fill more than 6 miles of gaps where sidewalks are missing. New curb ramps at street corners and rebuilt driveways will make these new sidewalks accessible to all.

Please come to the open house to see plans and maps, learn more, talk to staff and provide feedback.
