6 p.m. April 11, 2017

The Public is Welcome!

Introductions/Announcements

6:00

Get Portland Moving

6:10

Emily Tritsch, PBOT's principal asset manager, will discuss the city's "Get Portland Moving" effort. This will be a brief overview of this program, which is intended to lessen the effect of construction projects on the traveling public.

Portland Art Museum Ordinance Amendment

6:20

Christine Leon, PBOT Development Permitting & Transit Group Manager and Caitlin Reff, PBOT Project Manager will follow up on last month's brief mention of the Art Museum Ordinance Amendment by Commissioner Saltzman. The Amendment responds to the Museum's request to develop the Rothko Pavilion that would enclose the pedestrian easement on the vacated portion of SW Madison St between SW 10th and SW Park and link the two Museum buildings. It would limit pedestrian access and prohibit bicycle access. Christine and Caitlin will more fully describe the proposal and answer questions.

Biketown Report

6:45

Steve Hoyt-McBeth from PBOT manages the city's side of Biketown, and also sits on the board of the North American Bikeshare Association (NABSA). He brings a well-rounded national and international perspective to bikeshare programs. Steve will present to the committee information gleaned from the wealth of data about Biketown's operation since its opening last summer.

Division Street

7:10

Elizabeth Mahon, project manager with PBOT, will describe the several transportation efforts currently underway on SE Division Street. These include a safety campaign, engineering changes to enhance safe operations on the roadway, including improvements to the cycling environment. PBOT's efforts are being coordinated with the Division Transit Project. Representative from Trimet and Metro will be present to address any questions about the Division Transit Project.
